Further Particulars of the Andaman Island Disaster.

OVER TWO HUNDRED LIVES LOST

The First Report of the Cyclone Gave but a Slight Account of the Damage Done—In Addition to the Two Hundred Killed Over Two Hundred and Fifty People Were Injured.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Further particulars received here this morning from Calcutta show that the cyclone which swept over the Andaman islands (a British convict settlement) in the Bay of Bengal on Monday last, caused a very much larger loss of life than was at first reported, and that the damage done was far in excess of the amount first telegraphed here. In addition to the drowning of nearly all of the crew of her majesty's steamship Enterprise, the government steamship engaged in conveying the convicts to and from the settlement, by which seventy-eight out of eighty-three men lost their lives, it is now officially announced that the total loss of life is nearly 200, and that about 250 persons in addition were severely wounded.

The first approach of the cyclonic disturbance was denoted by the deadly stillness which settled over the islands, and by the fact that the birds and animals seemed to be trembling with fear, seeking shelter everywhere, and apparently having entirely lost their dread of man's approach to them. Then the air became most oppressively hot and banks of dark clouds began to gather on the eastern horizon, while in the distance could be heard the low rumbling of thunder, the clouds now and then being broken by flashes of vivid lightning.

By this time everybody on the islands had come to the conclusion that a severe tropical storm was approaching, but nobody really imagined that a disaster was pending. The fishermen and coasting vessels were hurriedly making for shelter, and the crew of the Enterprise began to huddle down and get ready to eat their spare anchors.

The Andaman islands form a group in the Bay of Bengal, between latitude 10 and 13 degrees north, and nearly under 93 degrees of east longitude, about 180 miles southwest of Cape Negrais, a headland on the coast of British Burmah. The Great and Little Andaman island's compose the group, and they are separated by Duncan's passage, where a number of native coasters and fishing boats foundered or were driven ashore during the cyclone of Monday.

Point Blair, on Chatham Island, is the headquarters of the convict settlement, the latter being naturally the most important industrial center of the islands. It was at Point Blair that the greatest loss of life occurred, and it is believed here that when the final returns come in it will be seen that considerably over 200 and possibly 300 were victims of the cyclone's fury, for the population of Port Blair, or Blair station, is over 13,000 souls.

Soon after the thunder rolls and lightning were noticed, rushing sounds were heard in the air, and these increased until a fierce gale was howling across the islands, whipping the water into foam and bending trees like whips before its breath, but this was nothing to what followed. Suddenly the fury of the storm seemed to be redoubled, and a wild burst of wind bent down, uprooted or cracked in two great numbers of trees, unroofed numbers of buildings, sent planks, small trees, clouds of foliage and even heavy beams whirling through the air, which by this time seemed to be charged with electricity and to be positively thick with oppressive damp heat.

The convicts who were not in confinement, nearly all of them being East Indians, ran panic-stricken, here and there, seeking places of shelter, or falling prostrate upon the ground, they resigned themselves, helplessly, to their fate, and murmuring prayers, prepared to die.

With the convicts in confinement, the situation was much worse. The shrieking cyclone, the fearful thunder and lightning and the shouts of command or warning to be heard on all sides, spread such terror among them that they raged like wild beasts in their efforts to free themselves and at least meet death at liberty. Then came the sound of falling buildings, of crashing roofs and shrieks of agony, as scores of helpless convicts were crushed beneath falling beams and toppling masonry. On all sides was the air filled with yells of agony or despair, and mingling with the fearful sounds of the cyclonic fury, these lamentations caused a scene which happily rarely, if ever, has been equaled in that part of the world.

To the credit of the guards be it said that they did their utmost to release the confined convicts, but during the awful sweep of the storm over the islands every man, woman and child there had all they could do to look after their own personal safety. But, right here, let a most gallant example of woman's pluck and strength be noted and credited to the account of those who are, in eastern countries especially, looked upon as too weak and lowly to be worthy of anything but the right to live and bear children. In the present instance, in the midst of this terrible disturbance of nature, when the bravest and strongest men quailed with apprehension, it was noticed that a building, standing near the seashore, had been crushed down and actually hurled into the surf by the fearful force of the wind. Some of the convicts confined in this building succeeded in escaping before it was blown into the water, others were drowned in spite of their efforts to escape, but about nine or ten of these convicts succeeded in clambering upon the roof of their cycone-crushed quarters and they loudly appealed for help.

The guards and others, however, were too much occupied with other matters to be able to be of any service to the imperilled men. In this emergency, a gang of female convicts displayed great bravery. Undaunted by the shrieking cyclone, and listening only to the frantic appeals for help uttered by the men in danger, they boldly joined hands together in a long line, a human rope, the boldest of the women at the end facing the water, and in this manner the female convicts slowly but steadily ventured into the raging surf, beating upon the shore, and though those at the extremity of the line were frequently swept off their feet and were almost drowned by the rushing waters, they finally succeeded in rescuing six native convicts who would otherwise have perished, for their companions had been swept away and drowned.

This is only an instance of the courage displayed upon this occasion by the female convicts of the Andaman islands; on all sides they won the highest praise by ministering to the dying and nursing the wounded. While the men seemed cowed with terror, the women, as a rule, displayed the most remarkable courage. So much so that it is understood that the governor general of the penal station will recommend that a number of them will be pardoned, and that the sentences of a large number of others be commuted to short terms of imprisonment.

While this was going on ashore, at sea, off the coast, matters were nearly as bad. Every small craft, without apparently a single exception, caught at sea by the cyclone, was either swamped after a short struggle with the storm, or swept ashore, and then dashed to pieces amid the surf. A number of natives not included in the present estimate, lost their lives in this manner.

The crew of her majesty's ship Enterprise, fared no better than the natives, in spite of their utmost endeavors, the steamer, dragging anchors, was forced ashore and soon after she began pounding upon the rocks. She broke up so quickly that but three or four out of her crew of ninety, were saved.

Of course, as in all similar events, it is difficult, almost impossible, to obtain full facts and figures as to the total loss of life and exact amount of damage done, but enough is already known now to enable the statement to be made that the loss of life will certainly be between 200 and 250, and that there are from 250 to 300 people seriously injured.

The damage done to crops and other property throughout north Andaman island, middle Andaman island and south Andaman island, comprising the Great Andaman and over the Little Andaman, including Interview island, Outram island, Henry Lawrence island and Rutland island, is judged to be very heavy, for it is admitted that all the crops not in thoroughly sheltered places have been completely destroyed, and that the number of buildings damaged or destroyed is very great.

So far as known here the convict population of the Andaman islands, as they are officially designated, is about 14,000, of which number some 3,000 hold tickets as "self-supporters," which enables them to engage in trades or occupations about the islands by receiving the necessary permission from the governor. The latter to control this large number of convicts has a police force, native and British, of about 700 men. The aboriginal population compared with the number of convicts at the same place is very small. The totals, however, vary according to the different sources of information; some reports give the islands a population of only 2,000 natives, while others place it at 10,000. In any case the aboriginal population is composed of people of low type and of diminutive size.

Of the 20,000 acres of ground cleared by the convicts, and upon which they depend for sustenance, the main part is said to have been rendered practically useless by the cyclonic visitation, and this, it is said, will result in much additional expense and annoyance to the Indian government. As many of the convicts' storehouses are in ruins and a vast amount of stores have been destroyed, the question of hastening supplies to the storm-swept convict settlement is one which is giving considerable trouble to the Indian government. Relief steamers will have to be promptly dispatched to the scene of the calamity.

Owing to the heat in the Andaman islands the bodies of the victims are already being interred, and the scenes witnessed at these wholesale burials are described as terrible.

TENNESSEE MINERS' TROUBLES.

Critical State of Affairs, and United States Troops May Be Called On.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 11.—Matters between the rebellious miners and the state of Tennessee are in almost a standstill, the governor asserting that he will rebuild the stockades and the miners daring him to do it. Governor Buchanan realizes the responsibility and is much alarmed at the aspect affairs have taken.

He has been in communication with the secretary of war for some days past, and has asked aid of the United States if the worst comes. The general opinion in the south is that a serious fight cannot be averted.

Governor Buchanan is said to fear his handful of troops will not be able to withstand the 6,000 miners of east Tennessee, who would be reinforced by 20,000 others from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Alabama and Virginia, and would wipe out the available militia at his command, and then over-ride the whole state in reckless outlawry.

WOOSTER, O., Nov. 11.—After being in a trance for seventeen years, it is alleged, Mrs. John Boose has awakened and is again able to talk. She remembers nothing in that time. Religious excitement caused the long sleep.

FIGHTING IN BRAZIL.

First Rumors of War Have Since Been Confirmed.

THE REBELLION A SERIOUS ONE.

The Province of Pernambuco Joins That of Rio Grande do Sul and Declares Itself Independent of the Government as Now Constituted—Serious Loss of Life Reported, but Particulars Are Unobtainable on Account of Telegraph Wires Being Cut.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—On account of the strict guard kept by the Brazilian government over the telegraph and cable lines it is almost impossible to obtain reliable news as to the exact state of the country. It is now generally admitted, however, that there is no room for further doubt that the province of Rio Grande do Sul has declared its independence, and as it is reported that this independent territory includes about 50,000 fighting Germans among its population, the revolution there is undoubtedly serious.

The report that reached here that there had been fighting in the province of Rio Grande do Sul has since been confirmed. The trouble referred to is said to have its center at Port Alegre, the capital of Rio Grande do Sul, but the telegraph wires leading from the supposed scene of the fighting having been cut, some time must elapse before definite news gets even so far as Rio Janiero.

Merchants and others in the city interested in the finances of trade of Brazil are doing their utmost to obtain some kind of information from their agents in Brazil, but their efforts do not seem to be meeting with much success. Late yesterday afternoon, however, the announcement was made that at least another province in Pernambuco has revolted against the dictation of Marshal Da Fonseca, and had declared itself independent of the government as now constituted.

By the same source it became known that at least two other provinces were on the verge of declaring their independence, and rumor also had it that the restoration party held sway in one of the revolted provinces. This report, which comes from Bahia, may have its origin in imperialist circles, but, be that how it may, the situation of affairs would seem to indicate a long and bloody civil war in the near future, to overthrow of Da Fonseca's dictatorship, and the establishment in Brazil of a number of republics somewhat similar to those of South Africa.

A later dispatch says there is no longer any attempt to deny that the province of Pernambuco has joined the province of Rio Grande do Sul in declaring its independence. Great excitement prevails at Rio do Janeiro and Brazil. It is reported here that Marshal Da Fonseca has been informed that he is suffering from a disease which must soon cause his death, and that he has announced his willingness to resign the reins of power.

The German population of Rio Grande do Sul is reported to be organizing into armed bodies of men on the plan of the Dutch settlers of South Africa, and to be determined to defend the independence of their new state.

The troops under the command of Marshal Da Fonseca are said to have been ordered to move upon Rio Grande do Sul. This report, however, is not believed here, as it is understood that the dictator has been warned by his most trusted admirers to do every thing possible to avoid bloodshed.

A still later rumor has it that there has been a conflict with serious loss of life, between the supporters of the government and the colonists who have just declared their independence.

PLEDGED TO KILL HIMSELF.

The Seventeenth Member of the Suicide Club Keeps His Word.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 11.—John Kopp, a German lately employed as a cabinet maker, hanged himself Monday night to a rafter in the cellar of his home. He was one of the last members of the famous suicide club of this city, and it was time for another member to die. He had been a member of the club from its beginning, and had officiated at the funeral of nearly all the members and often said that his turn would come in a short time. There are only two other members of the club now living.

Every member who joined when the club was first projected has died by violence and his own hand. Kopp is the seventeenth man of the club who has killed himself. The two remaining members are expected to do their duty.

ANNA DICKINSON A WRECK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Miss Anna Dickinson has been in town for a few days. She passed the time very quiet; at the Sturtevant House and denied herself to callers. She is sadly broken in health and her mental trouble is not improving. There is but little in the unhappy and haggard guest of the Sturtevant to suggest the brilliant minded and forceful woman Anna Dickinson was twenty years ago. Miss Dickinson left Sunday for her home in Pennsylvania. She will probably never again appear in public.

Traded Stolen Horses.

IRONTON, O., Nov. 11.—Henry McGee hired two horses of John McCormick of Gallipolis. He went to Jackson and traded the animals to Tom Delay for one horse and buggy, and got $10 to boot. He took that horse to Waterford and traded his horse and buggy for a horse and saddle, to a man by the name of Queen, and then went to Portsmouth and sold the animal and buggy. He is from Proctorville, and well known everywhere.

"I AM GUILTY."

The Startling Confession of a Prominent Physician and Politician.

RACINE, Wis., Nov. 11.—The people of southern Wisconsin were shocked on the morning of Aug. 10 to read that Dr. Charles N. Palmer, one of the most prominent and respected physicians in this section of the country, had been arrested charged with robbing the store and postoffice at the quiet little village of Raymond Center.

His many friends were loth to place any credence in the story of the man's crimes, and have believed all along that the doctor would prove his innocence when the proper time came. Those same friends will be more than shocked to learn that when brought up before the circuit court Monday and Judge Fish asked what he had to say as to the charge preferred, the doctor, with bowed head, said: "I am guilty, your honor," and then sank back in his chair and wept like a child.

The attorney of the doctor asked that sentence be deferred until he could introduce some testimony in regard to the man's habits and the condition of him, the claim being made that he was addicted to the opium habit, and was a physical wreck and not responsible for his actions and particularly for the crime he had committed. Sentence was deferred. The penalty for the crime is from one to five years in the penitentiary.

The life of Dr. Palmer up to the time he committed the crime was an honorable one. He was a prominent politician, was an elector on the Republican presidential ticket in 1888, member of medical board of pension examiners, and a central figure of all conventions. He is a son of N. H. Palmer, a Waterford merchant who was for twelve years the warden of the penitentiary at Waupun, where his son will soon put on the prison garb.

HANDICAPPED HEARTS.

Pulsations Down as Low as Thirty a Minute.

MOORE'S HILL, Ind., Nov. 11.—The very strange story of Mr. James Stevens and his wonderful pulse of thirty-two a minute, recently published, has called to notice two other cases that are scarcely less remarkable. One of these is the heart failure of the late W. H. Baker, of Manchester. His heart-beat for the eighteen months preceding his death was only thirty a minute.

Mr. Zephaniah Heustis, of the same village, is another man found to have a handicapped heart. His pulse for the last ten weeks has not risen above thirty-six. This is stated for a fact on good authority, and yet Mr. Heustis enjoys good health; and as he expresses himself, is as sound as ever, save after violent exercise, when he is troubled with shortness of breath and a cough.

EVENING BULLETIN.

DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY.
ROSSER & McCARTHY,
Proprietors.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1891.

PRESIDENT HARRISON's friends don't want to overlook the fact that the anti-Harrison Republicans of Indiana have actually started a paper in that State to oppose his re-election.

It's only a question of a few years when natural gas will practically be a thing of the past. The Harris fuel gas, however, will come very near taking its place. Think of gas at 4½ cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

WITH Crisp, Mills, Breckinridge, McMillin, Springer, Hatch and others to choose from, the Democrats oughtn't have much trouble in getting a good man for Speaker of the House of the next Congress.

BIRDS of a feather flock together, is an old saying. Quay, one of the most corrupt and unprincipled politicians that Pennsylvania or any other State has ever produced, seems to be managing Blaine's Presidential boom.

COLONEL J. N. HUSTON, an Indiana Republican, late Treasurer of the United States, expressed the opinion recently that the Democrats will be "in it" when it comes to electing the next President. The late elections point that way also.

A LOUISVILLE lumber merchant who failed the other day has dragged down about half a dozen other firms in the same business to financial ruin. The latest was C. B. Paul, who failed yesterday for $200,000. There must be something wrong in the way business is conducted nowadays.

THE BULLETIN'S Aberdeen correspondent, in speaking yesterday of the late election in Ohio, said the Republican victory was the result of "a combination of circumstances." The compositor set it up "a combination of Cincinnatians." There is but little doubt that "a combination of Cincinnatians" did do a good deal to bring about Campbell's defeat.

THE Duckworth Club is the leading Democratic organization of Cincinnati. At the regular meeting Monday night, the charge was made that several of its members worked against Governor Campbell at the late election, and actually used money to defeat him. The faithful Democrats of the club are justly indignant at such doings, and have taken steps to fire the traitors from the organization.

THE Chicago Press advocates a change, and wants the President, Vice President and Senators elected by a direct vote of the people. The present plan, the Press says, is "in contravention to the majority rule and repugnant to the spirit of our institutions." Harrison lacked nearly 100,000 of having a majority of the popular vote, and Hayes was also a minority President. The Press is right. Let's have a change. The majority must rule.

COVINGTON has locked horns, so to speak, with one of her street railway companies, and there is a lively fight in progress. It is claimed on one side that the railway company's franchise has expired. It is a valuable franchise and the city wants to put it up and sell it to the highest bidder—a right the new Constitution gives her.

On the other hand, the street car company denies that the franchise has expired, and promptly enjoined the city from effecting the sale, and the matter was brought before the Chancery Court. The company endeavored to file a supplemental petition alleging that the City Council, by requiring the company to lay the road-bed for their track, recognized an existing contract between the city and said company. To the filing of the supplemental petition the city objected, and Judge Menzies in his opinion holds that the requirements provided by the Council could in no wise be construed as a perpetuation of the franchise.

Corporations will probably find that under the new Constitution they can't run things just as they please in this State. The people have some rights now that have to be respected.

As to Franchises.

Section 164 of the new Constitution is an important one, in that it makes a big change in the granting of franchises by municipal authorities. It is as follows:

No county, city, town, taxing district or other municipality shall be authorized or permitted to grant any franchise or privilege, or make any contract in reference thereto, for a term exceeding twenty years. Before granting such franchise or privilege for a term of years, such municipality shall first, after due advertisement, receive bids therefor publicly, and award the same to the highest and best bidder; but it shall have the right to reject any or all bids. This section shall not apply to a trunk railway.

It is very evident, however, from another section that the one just copied is not yet in force. Section 166 says:

All acts of incorporation of cities and towns

hereunto granted, and all amendments thereto, except as provided in section 167, shall continue in force under this Constitution, and all city and police courts established in any city or town shall remain, with their present powers and jurisdictions, until such time as the General Assembly shall provide by general laws for the government of towns and cities, and the officers and courts thereof; but not longer than four years from and after the first day of January, 1891, within which time the General Assembly shall provide by general laws for the government of towns and cities, and the officers and courts thereof, as provided in this Constitution.

Section 167 referred to in section 166 applies to the election of officers and the terms thereof. The cities and towns of Kentucky are still doing business under their old charters. The new Constitution hasn't anything to do with the case and won't have until the General Assembly takes some action in the matter and gives us a new charter, but the General Assembly has to do this in a specified time.

Railroad News.

A new time-card will probably go into effect on the C. and O. some time this week.

The officials of the C. and O. are making their annual inspection of the road this week.

From January 1st to September 30th, 1891, there were 2,829 miles of railroad built in the United States, Georgia leading with 200 miles.

The C. and O.'s passenger business at this place for September and October shows an increase of $2,600 over the corresponding period in 1890.

General Manager Metcalfe and other officials of the L. and N. started Monday on their annual inspection trip over the road and its many branches. They come in over the K. C. to-day or to-morrow.

Judge Lindsay says that the new Constitution will not prevent Bourbon and Bath counties from taking a vote on another subscription to the Kentucky Midland road, and that a new proposition will be submitted to Bourbon soon.

F. E. Janowitz, formerly joint agent of the C. and O. and K. C. at this place, but now agent of the B. and O., S. W., at Cincinnati, secured a shipment of 1,200,000 pounds of freight for his road at one clip a few days since. The shipment was for a point in Ohio and required a train of 32 cars.

In the year ending June 30, 1891, the freight trains on the Chesapeake and Ohio road earned $1.38 per mile run, against $1.20 the previous year. The earnings of the passenger trains were eighty-nine cents per mile run, against seventy-seven cents in the previous year. The mail and express earnings are not included in the earnings of the passenger trains.

The Enquirer says the Chesapeake and Ohio most certainly possesses a remarkable earning capacity. The October statement shows that the gross earnings for the month exceeded those for the corresponding month of last year $131,909.92. The figures are:

1890.....	705,733 38
Increase.....	$131,909 92

For the Farmer.

Canada has an enormous apple crop. Apples are being exported in large quantities.

A late estimate places the peach crop of the Delaware Peninsula for 1891 at 600,000 baskets.

One shipment of dried fruit from California last week was valued at $30,000. It required fifteen cars.

Mr. R. Soward and son, W. J. Soward, shipped 56 hogs to Cincinnati yesterday. The lot averaged about 275 pounds.

In keeping winter apples they are sometimes put in bins under the trees as fast as they are picked and covered with loose boards until cold weather, when they are sorted and barreled and stored where they will not freeze. This is better than spreading them out on the floor of a barn or putting them in piles or bins in any building during the changing temperature of fall weather, for I have never found exposing apples to the air a good way of preserving them. Taking one year with another I believe the best method is to barrel apples as fast as they are gathered from the trees and they should be tightly pressed into the barrels.

By the use of a screw. For some reason I have never seen explained, they seem to keep better when tightly pressed than when laid in loosely. After they are barreled it is important to keep them cool and where they have good ventilation. I would prefer a damp cellar to a very dry one, but a thick walled room, above ground where they won't freeze in the barrels, and where all the ventilation wanted can be had at will, is better than either—Exchange.

There is None Better.

Dr. R. L. St. John, of Howland, Putnam County, Missouri, takes especial pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, because he knows it to be reliable. He has used it in his practice for several years, and says there is none better. It is especially valuable for colds and as a preventive and cure for croup. The most excellent medicine is for sale by Power & Reynolds.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

RECTORVILLE.

J. H. Trisler is on the sick list. Mr. Thomas rented his farm to Jacob Dunaway. Water is getting very scarce. People are driving stock to water.

Turkey buyers are plentiful. They are paying 5½ cents per pound.

Mr. John Walsh, of Maysville, was around Monday, delivering fruit trees.

Mr. Frank Gooding is taking advantage of the dry weather and cleaning off his farm by fire.

Mrs. Annie Mattingly is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Nancy Mattingly, near Mt. Gilead.

One of Mrs. Barnett's little daughters met with a painful accident Monday. While feeding a cutting box her hand caught in the knives and was nearly cut off.

GERMANTOWN.

Elder Hall is assisting in the meeting now in progress at the Christian Church.

John Hunter has sold his farm to Bracken, and is trying to buy or rent property in town.

Robt. Fegan has rented the property of C. Stiles in the east end and will move to the same this week.

Isaac Pollock, Jr., while bird hunting last Thursday, killed a large eagle, measuring seven feet from tip to tip of wings.

Elijah Miller and family have moved into the parsonage of the M. E. Church. The preacher having reserved a room, will board with him.

Messrs. Mabley & Carew, of the mammoth clothing house of Cincinnati, will give an exhibition of their splendid stereopticon views of the Rocky Mountains and the Great West at the Odd Fellows' Church on Saturday evening, November 23. Through the exertions of Professor Curry they were induced to come to our town. They charge nothing for their services and the proceeds are to be used in repairing the inside of the school house. A lecture will be given on the explanatory of the views. Tickets only 20 cents, children 10 cents. We have heard this exhibition highly spoken of at other places, and we hope to see a crowded house, as the object is a worthy one.

MAYSILK.

We had a little snow last week and a light fall of rain.

Mrs. W. J. Jackson, with her children, left last Saturday for her home at Shawhan.

Miss Jennie Evans and Mrs. J. A. Jackson and son, Master Mitchell, took in Maysville last Thursday.

Elder F. M. Tinder and wife went to Leesburg last Monday to see her mother, who is dangerously ill.

Mrs. Florence Collins, a modest and charming young lady of Illinois, is here visiting her aunt, Mrs. Rebecca Clary.

Tuesday morning we had a nice, gentle rain, much needed, and which will do an immense amount of good in supplying water and bringing up the wheat.

For the best smoke or chew in town, call on J. A. Jackson, who has a fresh supply of tobacco and cigars of the best brands, and the Richmond Straight Cut Cigarettes.

Mat Fields, the celebrated stone mason, is building stone walls on either side of the yard and laying a walk in front of the new church. He is doing a good job with rough material.

The glass man and the fresco came in last Thursday, and the finishing touches are now being done in the new church. R. A. Colens came over from Georgetown on the 4th instant to put the sash in the windows, and he will get through the coming week.

The marriage of Miss Dora Berry and W. R. Forman was announced at church last Sunday to take place at her mother's, in this place, on the 11th instant. Elder Tinder will officiate. They are both old enough to know what they are doing. They have the best wishes of the writer.

Let's see what it costs for one month at the rate of three drinks a day at 10 cents. Twenty-one per week making $2.10; four times that makes $8.40. We have plenty that spend more than that, pay the cash and then call on the merchant to credit them for something to eat. Think of it, men, and save your dimes.

Professor Isaac Mitchell, the genial and agreeable principal of the Minerva male and female academy, has moved here with his family from Ripley, Ohio, and taken up his residence in the Haggerty property. He is being assisted by Professor Albright, of Fincastle, Ohio, and under the skillful management of these able and efficient gentlemen Minerva will soon have a college of which she may well be proud. The building has lately been furnished with elegant new seats from New York and other equally comfortable and necessary conveniences are being supplied.

A FALLING OFF.

The General Registration Not Up to Last Year's Figures by 101.

Two Wards Show an Increase and the Rest a Decrease—The Returns in Full.

The general registration Monday and Tuesday shows a falling off as compared with the figures a year ago.

At the general registration in November, 1890, 1,152 names were placed on the books. This year the total is only 1,051—a decrease of 101.

The First and Third wards show a slight increase over last year's returns, and the Second, Fourth and Fifth, a decrease.

Of the total decrease of 101, 59 are white and 42 colored. The complete returns of this year's registration are as follows:

White.	Col'd.
First ward.....	169
Second ward.....	125
Third ward.....	189
Fourth ward.....	210
Fifth ward.....	203
Total.....	896
Grand total.....	1,051

Last year's figures were as follows:

White.	Col'd.
First ward.....	161
Second ward.....	152
Third ward.....	187
Fourth ward.....	230
Fifth ward.....	225
Total.....	955
Grand total.....	1,152

The total registration for the two years was as follows:

1891.	1890.
First ward.....	176
Second ward.....	203
Third ward.....	206
Fourth ward.....	241
Fifth ward.....	225
Total.....	1,051

The falling off may have resulted from the fact that there will be another registration on the 17th of this month. Parties who register then will be entitled to vote at all elections until the general registration in 1892.

FOUND HIS WIFE,

But She Refused to Return and Live Any Longer With Him.

Mention was made several weeks ago of the elopement of Henry Hasson and Mrs. Tom Wright. Hasson left his wife and three children, while Mrs. Wright left five children for her husband to take care of.

The deserted husband soon afterwards placed the youngest children in the Campbell County Orphan Asylum and undertook to locate his recreant spouse.

It was thought the guilty couple had gone to Cincinnati, and the Post says that Wright finally located the elopers at 139 Sycamore street, that city.

The Post tells the rest of the story. It says: “Wright came to Cincinnati and went to that address, finding his wife at Mrs. Wilcox's boarding house, where she and Hasson were living under the name of Barnard.

The couple had a long conversation, Mrs. Wright utterly refusing to leave Hasson, or to recognize the husband's claims. Wright was compelled to return to Maysville for business reasons, but came back to Cincinnati. By this time, however, the couple had mysteriously left the boarding house, and their present whereabouts are unknown. Hasson is said to be employed on some railway.”

MARGARET REID.

The Talented Vocalist Will Soon Visit Relatives in this City.

Miss Margaret Reid Kackley, the talented vocalist, arrived from Europe a few days since, and is now at Indianapolis. The Indianapolis News says:

“Miss Reid's trip to this country is purely for the purpose of visiting her family whom she has not seen since the May Festival two years ago. It was not her intention to sing here, but when she arrived in New York she found letters awaiting her from the committee of the Flower Mission asking her to appear on the opening night. Her love for and interest in her old home overcame all resolutions to the contrary and she answered in the affirmative. While in New York she was the guest of Miss Butler, granddaughter of Justice Bradley, of the Supreme Court.

“Miss Reid expects to return to Paris in December. It is not her intention to make a public appearance in this country at present, other than at the Flower Mission entertainment. Had she desired, she could have sang at the Seidl Orchestra concerts given at Madison Square Garden, New York. She sings here because it is her home, and like all true Americans, she is loyal to the place of her nativity. There is much interest manifested in musical circles by Miss Reid's visit to America. Mr. Rubens, of New York, the manager of Mme. Albani in this country, will come from New York to be present at Miss Reid's appearance here.

“Her correct name, and the one by which she is known by her early associates, is Susan Margaret Kackley. When she first intimated to Mme. Leonard her intention of going on the stage, that lady impressed upon her the necessity of changing her surname, claiming that ‘Kackley’ in either the French or ‘German’ languages was harsh and would not meet with favor. The young singer was averse to the change and still clung to her German-English cognomen. One day she read a portion of a letter from her brother to her teacher, whereupon that lady said, ‘What is his name?’

“‘Thomas Reid Kackley,’ was the reply. “Good. I have it,” was the enthusiastic response, and, raising her hand in a dramatic manner, Mme. Leonard exclaimed, ‘I here christen you Margaret Reid.’ And from that day the young singer has been known to the musical profession under that appellation. Miss Reid's advantages in Europe have been of the best. Her instructor, Mme. Leonard, was an orphan at an early age and was adopted into the family of her cousin, Emanuel Garcia, and was brought up with Malibran and Pauline Vielot, both famous artists.

“Miss Reid possesses a lyric soprano voice, or what the French call an Italian soprano. She is of the class of singers to which Patti and Nevada belong. Her voice has marvelous execution, and a carrying quality that makes it distinctly heard throughout the largest auditoriums. Her voice is now thoroughly poised, under Mme. Leonard, and her studies with that famous teacher are about completed. She has yet to add a few operas to her already extended repertoire before she emerges as a full-fledged prima donna. She has the choice of several good engagements in Europe. The best offer is from St. Petersburg, which is a rich field for aspiring artists. Miss Reid has everything in her favor for an operatic career—beauty, grace, magnetism and a voice trained under the purest of the old Italian methods.”

Miss Kackley will visit relatives in this city before she returns to Europe, and it is hoped she will consent to appear in concert while here. She was born at Germantown, and Maysville and Mason County people would be glad of an opportunity to hear her.

JUDGE PHISTER tied the nuptial knot for I. M. Hines and Sallie Prichard at the County Clerk's office this morning. The couple live in Lewis County. This was the groom's third marriage. He remarked, while waiting for the license, “I haint had a wife for two years now.”

THE largest pair of “slippers” ever seen in Maysville were on exhibition this morning at Owens, Mitchell & Co.'s hardware establishment. They are nineteen inches long and eight and a half wide. Mr. H. D. Watson, of Shannon, ordered them as a bridal present for one of his bachelor friends who gets married at Mayslick this afternoon.

MR. CLARENCE L. SALLER and Miss Lulu Mitchell will be married at the Christian Church Wednesday, November 25th, at 3:30 p. m. No cards. The couple will be glad to have all their friends present. The groom-to-be is one of the brightest members of the Mason County Bar, while she whom he has chosen for a life companion is one of Maysville's most charming young ladies.

A Clean Healthy Play.

Gillette's “New Private Secretary” filled a three-nights' engagement at Memphis last week, and the Evening Scimitar says of it: “The three principals were supported by an exceptionally strong company. The play has been re-written and re-arranged by the author since its last presentation here, and has been vastly improved, though it was a strong attraction before. It is a clean healthy play, replete with refined comedy, as all of Mr. Gillette's productions are, and as re-written even those who have seen it before will enjoy as something new.”

At the opera house to-morrow night. Tickets now on sale at Nelson's.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

General Assembly in Session at Toledo.

THE FIRST DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

One Hundred and Fifty Delegates Present Representing a Constituency of Over Half a Million Members—A Reception to Mr. Powderly.

TOLEDO, Nov. 11.—The general assembly Knights of Labor convened in this city yesterday morning. Proceedings were opened by the worthy foreman, Hugh Cavanaugh, of Cincinnati, owing to the late arrival of General Master Workman Powderly. The chief arrived shortly before noon, and was received with great applause. The committee on credentials then reported.

District assemblies from No. 1 to No. 258, each having a membership of not less than 1,000, are represented, and the trades assemblies having delegates here are: Window glass workers, clothing cutters, shoemakers, cigarmakers, coal miners, plate glass workers, street car men, railroad men, surface car men, salesmen, silk weavers and national trades assemblies Nos. 75, 82, 128, 135, 160, 181, 198, 216, 222, 230, 231, 240, 246, 252 and 253, whose trades are not mentioned.

The following state assemblies are also separately represented: Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Dakota, Georgia, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Carolina, Ohio, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin.

In all there are not less than 150 delegates present, representing a constituency of not less than 500,000 members.

A message was received and read from the Brotherhood of Boilermakers as follows:

T. V. Powderly, General Master Workman:

DEAR SIR—On behalf of the National Brotherhood of Boilermakers of the United States, I extend to you and through you the noble order you have the honor to represent, hearty congratulations for the excellent auspices under which you are now assembled.

Trusting that your order in the future will develop much of benefit for the welfare and amelioration of the oppressed, in whose interests your society is justly celebrated for its earnest efforts put forth in behalf thereof, and of those who have learned to love its principles because charity and justice unto all is guaranteed in every measure advocated.

JERRY McCARTHY,
Grand President.

During the afternoon the report of the credentials committee was discussed.

Tuesday night a reception was tendered to Mr. Powderly and the visitors, at which Mr. Emmick presided.

BIG DAMAGE SUIT.

The Robinson Brothers, Circus Men, Claim $100,000.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 11.—A damage suit for a large amount, filed in Newport, Tuesday, will prove of wide interest. William Fitzgerald, a resident of Newport, brings the action against his brother, Rev. John Fitzgerald, whose present home is at Norfolk, Va., and the damages claimed are $100,000.

John Fitzgerald was the inventor of a plaster used for houses, but he was without means to put his patent on the market, and the petition alleges that in consideration of $12,000 advanced by William Fitzgerald he was to have a half interest. James and John Robinson, the circus men, loaned the above amount to William Fitzgerald for a certain interest they were to have in the patent.

This was in 1888. These parties allege that the patent plaster has proved a great success; that half a dozen factories in as many cities are engaged in manufacturing the stuff, but they never have received any benefit. The First National bank at Newport is made a party to the suit, and $25,000 supposed to be deposited in this bank by the company was attached.

MINERS' STRIKE UNBROKEN.

Not a Shaft in Operation in the Indiana District.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Nov. 11.—Advices from various points show that the striking coal miners are presenting an unbroken front, and if there is a shaft in active work throughout the district it has escaped the attention of the state officers. Yesterday there was a mass meeting at Clay City, which was addressed by President Comiskey and which resulted in the miners resolving to stand by the strikers.

The state officers report that several block operators, as well as an equal number of bituminous operators, have expressed a willingness to concede the advance, and President Comiskey is credited with saying that all that prevents work being resumed is the universal agreement, by which none of the strikers can accept re-employment if the whole number is not provided for. Several of the operators have taken advantage of the strike to cancel contracts.

Hereditary Heart Trouble.

COLUMBUS, Ind., Nov. 11.—Mrs. George Dahn, about sixty years of age, died this morning, suddenly, of heart trouble. Six months ago her sister, Mrs. John Werner, two years younger, died of the same trouble. Thirteen years ago John Wolf, a brother, was suddenly seized with heart trouble, and died three hours later. Their father was found dead in his bed here, thirty-five years ago after retiring well and heartily at night, and previous to this their mother had died suddenly of heart trouble in Germany. About three months ago John Werner, the husband of Mrs. Werner, died suddenly in this city of the same trouble. Mr. Wolf, Mr. Werner and Mr. Dahn (who serves his wife) were all three butchers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—W. J. Hancock, superintendent of the Wells, Fargo & Company's express, died early this morning.

Here and There.

Colonel R. G. Lynn left yesterday for Hot Springs.

Mrs. P. Collins, of Covington, is the guest of Mrs. Thos. A. Ross.

Mrs. John T. Parker and children are visiting her mother at Shannon.

Rev. M. L. Murphy, of Springfield, O., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hunt.

MANY CITIZENS.

MURDERER HANGED.

Henry Curtis Pays the Death Penalty on the Scaffold.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 11.—Henry Curtis, colored, who killed an old man named Waller, near Tanner's Creek, on Sept. 5, 1889, suffered the extreme penalty for his crime in the Portsmouth jail yesterday. The drop fell shortly before 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and in eight minutes Curtis was dead. His neck was broken by the fall.

The murder for which Curtis was hanged was a most cowardly and brutal one. He awakened Waller, who kept a store on a lonely road, about midnight on the date of the crime, and when the old man appeared he said he wanted some quinine for a sick person. As soon as Waller's back was turned he struck him a fearful blow on the head, rendering the old man senseless.

While Waller was in that condition the brutal negro wrapt the body in an old blanket, saturated it with oil and set fire to it. The body was burned to a crisp. Curtis was arrested shortly after his diabolical crime. The indignation of the citizens against him was so great that a lynching party was formed. The military, however, was called out and thwarted the purposes of the citizens.

Runaway Horse Demolishes a Saloon.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 11.—Dr. Taylor's horse became frightened and ran away on Michigan street yesterday. At the corner of Noble street he dashed into Henry Miller's saloon, breaking a plate glass window and doors to flinders. Once inside he began kicking and plunging, and the bar was soon smashed into kindling wood, the decanters thrown from the shelves to the floor and broken and the plate glass mirror demolished. Three men in the saloon crouched down in one corner and thus escaped injury. The saloon was a complete wreck, but the horse sustained no injury except by cuts from broken glass.

Devil's Backbone on Fire.

HANOVER, Ind., Nov. 11.—The dense woods and bushes on what is known as the Devil's Backbone, a wild and primitive track lying between this village and Madison, has been burning fiercely since Wednesday last, presenting an inspiring scene, especially at night time. The place is great resort for sportsmen and it is thought the fire was started accidentally by hunters. The Devil's Backbone is covered with magnificent timber, many acres of which have thus far been destroyed. It is surrounded mostly by plowed ground, and there is little apprehension of damage to property in that vicinity.
